

Silk Hose of the Better Kind

McCallum Hose have stood the test and show the supremacy over all others.

Lace Insert Hose with dainty embroidery, black and white, $2.98.

Of the many novelties in our first holiday shipment, these notable examples will be shown to-day:

Ombie Hose, in six different patterns, shaded most beautifully, $2.98.

Fancy Embroidery Lace and Fish Net Hose, in black and white, from $2.98 to $20.00.

Double Twisted Silk is used in our $1.00 and $1.50 of McCallum make, in all colors, street or evening.

Kaufmann & Company

Corner Fourth and Broad Streets.

Social and Personal

In honor of two of the season's debutantes, Misses Mary Bertrand and Virginia Chesterman, Mrs. J. M. Thomas gave a charming informal musicale yesterday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock, at her studio, 812 Harrison Street. A profusion of potted plants and tall vases of yellow and white chrysanthemums decorated the room, and a short musical program was rendered by Miss Borg, soprano, and Miss Thiermer, contralto. Both have lovely voices, and the songs rendered were very delightful. Mrs. Thomas received with the guests of honor, and those invited to meet them included only the debutantes of this winter. Mrs. L. R. Hamberlin also assisted in receiving.

Open Town House. Dr. and Mrs. J. Allison Hodges have returned to Richmond, after a week's stay in Atlantic City. Dr. and Mrs. Hodges have closed their country home at Westhampton, and are now occupying their town residence, 107 East Franklin Street, for the winter months.

Invitations Out. Miss John M. Miller, Jr., has issued cards for a big afternoon reception to take place at her home, 407 Floyd Avenue, on Tuesday, November 19, from 3 to 7 o'clock. The affair is in honor of Mrs. John M. Miller, III, a niece of this month, and Miss Mable Floyd Miller, one of the season's debutantes.

Dr. and Mrs. Miller will also give a reception on the same evening in honor of their daughter, Mrs. J. M. Miller, III, and Mrs. J. M. Miller, Jr. The married set will be entertained in the afternoon and the younger girls and men will be invited for the evening function. Both will be brilliant events, and a great many guests will be present.

To-Day's Functions. Miss Helen Rose will be hostess at tea this afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock in honor of Miss Sarah Oppenheimer, the debutante daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Miller.

Dunlop Hosiery
IT'S MADE IN RICHMOND

J.B. Mosby & Co.
JUST FOR FRIDAY SPECIALS TO-DAY.

HAMMOND
"Flowers of Guaranteed Freshness."

Tel. Madison 530.

Ask to see the Albion Heater
at Rigney's

THE REINACH CO., Inc.
107 E. BROAD STREET.

MILLINERY—Women's and Misses' Outer Apparel.

McDougall Kitchen Cabinets and Detroit Jewel Gas Ranges make sweet tempered housewives.

JURGENS
Adams and Broad.

The Velvet Kind
PURE ICE CREAM
Same Quality Every Day.
Monroe 1861.

Sydner & Hundley
are showing the largest collection of HANDSOME FURNITURE this season they have ever exhibited.

GIFT PIECES A SPECIALTY.

The House of Fashion
Bernard, Frances & Co.,
Broad and Fifth Streets

Learn the secret in every cup of Ridgways Tea
England's favorite for over 70 years

THE FREED CO.
501 EAST BROAD STREET

HAVE YOU SEEN THE New Method Gas Ranges
— AT —
PETTIT & CO.'S?

THE KIRKMAN ASSOCIATION
The Kirkman Association will hold its regular weekly meeting this morning at 11 o'clock in Room 430 of the Jefferson Hotel. Rehearsals for the big charity entertainment are progressing rapidly, and many important reports will be heard at the meeting to-day.

Charity Card Party. Richmond society will be out in full force this afternoon to attend the big card party given at the Jefferson Hotel at 3:30 o'clock for the Rosemary Library. More than 100 women will be present, and the prizes will be awarded for the best work. The committee in charge of the entertainment includes Mrs. George Wayne Anderson, Mrs. Luther Dawson, Mrs. Walter S. McNeil, Mrs. L. A. Moseley, Mrs. Benjamin O. James. Decorations will be in chrysanthemums and palms.

Misses Grogan Entertain. Monday afternoon, at their home in Winston-Salem, N. C., on Cherry Street, the Misses Grogan were entertained by a number of their friends, comprising a party to their guest, Mrs. A. F. Tuttle, of Spray, a bride of a few months, and Mrs. Harry Proeber, an October bride. Mrs. John Bryn and Mrs. Donna Craven met the guests at the door, welcoming them into the hall, where ferns and yellow chrysanthemums were used. Mrs. John Bryn and Mrs. Donna Craven showed the guests to the drawing room, where decorations were in ferns, golden chrysanthemums and English ivy. The evening was spent in a pleasant and enjoyable manner, and Mrs. Tuttle, both wearing their wedding gowns of white satin; Mrs. Arthur Morris, of Thomasville; Miss Elizabeth M. Grogan, Miss Cynthia Jones and Mrs. Lawrence McLean.

In the dining room, Mrs. William Reid and Mrs. J. A. Eiford, Mrs. Leo Vaughn and Mrs. Ada Dalton did the honors. This room was also arranged in a handsome set of Regency style. A large piece was used upon the table, in the center of which, on a circular mirror, stood a cut glass vase of chrysanthemums and a basket of fruit. The big yellow chrysanthemums, tied with a butterfly bow of yellow chiffon, ornamented the mantel. Mrs. P. N. B. Anderson, Mrs. W. O. Spencer, presided over the coffee, and serving sandwiches were Misses Anna Lulu Dobson, Mary Holton, Mary Grogan, Kathleen Korn, Terrell Young, Cassie Rose and Treva Jones.

In the living room punch was served by Mrs. R. J. Dalton, who was assisted by Misses Mary Griffith, Helen McArthur, May Dalton, Sarah Chunn, of Memphis, Pauline Cox, Eva Martin and Pannie Rosenbacher.

In and Out of Town. Mrs. John Harrison and her daughter, Miss Elsie Harrison, of West Franklin Street, are in New York for a short stay.

Miss Virginia Chamberlayne is leaving this week for a visit to relatives in Berryville.

Miss Teresa G. Higgins, of 219 Governor Street, is the guest of friends in Washington.

Mrs. Evans Martin and Miss Lizzie Reynolds have returned to Fredericksburg, after a short stay here.

Miss Elizabeth Dew, of Grove Avenue, is spending some time in New York City.

Miss Nettie Bryant, of Franklin, is the guest of Mrs. Leake, at 221 West Grace Street.

Mrs. and Mr. James Sutton Jones left Wednesday for their home in Johnson City, after a short visit to relatives in Richmond.

Mrs. William Sullinger and her son, Burroughs Sullinger, have returned to their home in Fredericksburg.

Mrs. J. C. Miller, of Huntington, W. Va., will shortly be the guest of her father, James G. Tinsley, at "Picquetogue."

Miss Ellen Moore, of this city, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. William S. Connelly in Alexandria this week.

Miss Bessie Kennon, who has been the guest of friends in Norfolk, is now visiting in Richmond, before returning to "Norwood."

Mrs. Powhatan Nash, of this city, has returned to her home, after a visit to Miss Annie Nicholson, in Fredericksburg.

Mrs. A. M. Gwynne and her daughter, Miss Sarah Gwynne, are guests of Mrs. A. J. Camp, in Roanoke.

Miss Esther Wood, of New James-town, is visiting Miss Elizabeth Brown at her home on South Third Street.

Miss de Graffenried Robertson, of Forest Hill, is visiting friends in Norfolk this week.

Mrs. and Mr. E. J. Everley, who have been guests of Mrs. Charles Gore, in Fredericksburg, have returned to Richmond.

Mrs. Mary E. Dillard, recent of the Lynchburg Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, is the guest of Mrs. Thomas Christian, in Clinton Park.

Mrs. Robert Gray, State secretary of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and Mrs. J. Gray, a delegate from Bristol, are guests of Mrs. Frank M. Davis, of 524 West Grace Street.

Mrs. W. R. Duke, of Albemarle County, is the guest of Mrs. C. E. Wingo, at 902 Park Avenue, for the D. A. R. conference.

Miss Julia Bailey, of Blackstone, Va., is the guest of Miss Minerva Adams, on Grove Avenue.

Mayers—Morgan. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Stenardsville, Va., November 13.—James H. Mayers and Miss Elizabeth Morgan, of this city, were married in Washington Tuesday. Mr. Mayers was formerly of this place.

Misses Entertained. Judge George Gilmer Gratton and Mrs. Gratton were hosts at a dinner Tuesday evening at their home, in Harrisburg. The dinner was given in compliment to their house guests, who were there for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Gratton, to Harrington Wight, of New York, and to the bride.

Those present were: Miss Gratton, Miss Margaret Reid Peale, her maid of honor; Miss Emily Gilkinson, of Petersburg, W. Va.; Miss Susie McGuffie, of Norfolk; Mrs. George Ryan, of Richmond; Mr. Wight, Carlton Patton, of New York, who was his best man; Dr. T. C. Pritchard, T. L. C. Lemley, and Robert Farham, of Petersburg.

Miss Lela Deane Anderson entertained the "Kit Kats" Tuesday afternoon at her home, in Alexandria. Those present were: Mrs. Edgar Wood, Mrs. Lewis H. Mohr, Mrs. George Ryan, of Richmond; Mrs. Wilmer J. Waller, Miss Edith Snowden, Dorsey Ashton, Nancy Tackett, Ellen Fawcett, Clarence Snowden, Elsie Snowden, George French, Alice Anderson, Nellie Thibault, Mrs. Mary Gibson, of Richmond, and Miss Winifred Thompson, of Canada.

Kirkman Meeting. The Kirkman Association will hold its regular weekly meeting this morning at 11 o'clock in Room 430 of the Jefferson Hotel. Rehearsals for the big charity entertainment are progressing rapidly, and many important reports will be heard at the meeting to-day.

Charity Card Party. Richmond society will be out in full force this afternoon to attend the big card party given at the Jefferson Hotel at 3:30 o'clock for the Rosemary Library. More than 100 women will be present, and the prizes will be awarded for the best work. The committee in charge of the entertainment includes Mrs. George Wayne Anderson, Mrs. Luther Dawson, Mrs. Walter S. McNeil, Mrs. L. A. Moseley, Mrs. Benjamin O. James. Decorations will be in chrysanthemums and palms.

Misses Grogan Entertain. Monday afternoon, at their home in Winston-Salem, N. C., on Cherry Street, the Misses Grogan were entertained by a number of their friends, comprising a party to their guest, Mrs. A. F. Tuttle, of Spray, a bride of a few months, and Mrs. Harry Proeber, an October bride. Mrs. John Bryn and Mrs. Donna Craven met the guests at the door, welcoming them into the hall, where ferns and yellow chrysanthemums were used. Mrs. John Bryn and Mrs. Donna Craven showed the guests to the drawing room, where decorations were in ferns, golden chrysanthemums and English ivy. The evening was spent in a pleasant and enjoyable manner, and Mrs. Tuttle, both wearing their wedding gowns of white satin; Mrs. Arthur Morris, of Thomasville; Miss Elizabeth M. Grogan, Miss Cynthia Jones and Mrs. Lawrence McLean.

In the dining room punch was served by Mrs. R. J. Dalton, who was assisted by Misses Mary Griffith, Helen McArthur, May Dalton, Sarah Chunn, of Memphis, Pauline Cox, Eva Martin and Pannie Rosenbacher.

In and Out of Town. Mrs. John Harrison and her daughter, Miss Elsie Harrison, of West Franklin Street, are in New York for a short stay.

Miss Virginia Chamberlayne is leaving this week for a visit to relatives in Berryville.

Miss Teresa G. Higgins, of 219 Governor Street, is the guest of friends in Washington.

Mrs. Evans Martin and Miss Lizzie Reynolds have returned to Fredericksburg, after a short stay here.

Miss Elizabeth Dew, of Grove Avenue, is spending some time in New York City.

Miss Nettie Bryant, of Franklin, is the guest of Mrs. Leake, at 221 West Grace Street.

Mrs. and Mr. James Sutton Jones left Wednesday for their home in Johnson City, after a short visit to relatives in Richmond.

Mrs. William Sullinger and her son, Burroughs Sullinger, have returned to their home in Fredericksburg.

Mrs. J. C. Miller, of Huntington, W. Va., will shortly be the guest of her father, James G. Tinsley, at "Picquetogue."

Miss Ellen Moore, of this city, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. William S. Connelly in Alexandria this week.

Miss Bessie Kennon, who has been the guest of friends in Norfolk, is now visiting in Richmond, before returning to "Norwood."

Children's and Misses' Coats

Representing the Best Values in Richmond. See Them

Children's Boucle Coats, in all shades, sizes up to 14 years, at $5.00
Chinchilla coats, in gray, navy and brown, sizes up to 14 years, at $5.98
Zibeline Coats, with belt effect, all sizes and all new shades, at $7.48
Very Dressed Coats, in all shades, cheviot with silk sash, long waist lines, at $8.50
Fine Chinchilla and Zibeline Coats, velvet trimmed, with belts, nicely lined, at $10.00
Wool Plush and Fine Zibeline Coats, all sizes, at $12.50
Misses' and Junior models, in all new materials and models, at $12.50 and $15.00

LATE KING ORDERED REGULAR DUTIES PAID

Action on Part of Dead Ruler Constituted Heavy Drain on Income.

BY LA MARQUE DE FONTENAY.

WHEN the income tax was first established—or rather, I should say, revived—by the administration of Sir Robert Peel, in 1842, Queen Victoria, partly with the object of allaying the unpopularity of the impost, which had become a fiscal necessity, and more especially with the object of sharing its burden with her people, announced her intention of paying the tax, not only on her civil list, but also on her private income.

King Edward went a step further. For, after he had been on the throne for a few years, he gave orders that the regular customs dues should be therefor paid on all wines, spirits, tobacco, and other dutiable articles imported from abroad for the use of the reigning family, of the royal household and of the court. As the royal cellars are of immense extent, and as, moreover, the consumption of costly tobacco at court is extremely large, this action on the part of the late King constituted a heavy drain on his official and private income. Through a special and private income, through a course, it meant a considerable addition to the yearly revenues of the customs department.

If I call attention to this matter, it is because of the widespread comment excited throughout the country by the exemption of President Woodrow Wilson, though not of his successors at the White House, from the payment of the income tax under the new income tax law, which was enacted by the United States Congress. It is not the "Vice-President," or the members of the Cabinet, who receive less than a sixth of his emoluments, and who, in the reign of Louis XI, the ten pages were missing from the time the office of royal librarian eight years ago by King Edward, and among other things brought to light, the ten missing pages of the celebrated French translation of the "History of the Kings of France," which is one of the gems of the National Library of France.

The work in question belonged to Charles V. of France, and found its way into the National Library of Paris in the reign of Louis XI. The ten pages were missing from the time the office of royal librarian eight years ago by King Edward, and among other things brought to light, the ten missing pages of the celebrated French translation of the "History of the Kings of France," which is one of the gems of the National Library of France.

There is scarcely a monarch in Europe who is not engaged in industry and commercial enterprises of some kind or other, some of the finest distilleries in Scotland being owned by King George, while the principal breweries in Bavaria belong to the Wittelsbachs. It is unfair that they should escape paying the same imposts in connection with these undertakings, as their exalted competitors in business. When kings and emperors, as well as sovereign grand dukes, endeavor to add to their resources by the construction and the running of hotels and restaurants, such as, for instance, the Grand Duke of Wurtemberg, the Grand Duke of Baden, and the Grand Duke of Bavaria, it is only right that they should pay the same license dues and imposts as their rival businessmen.

In Germany, the various rulers of the twenty odd sovereign states comprised in the empire are called upon to pay duties on their imports from abroad, just like any other Teutonic citizen. In the summer of 1910 the German newspapers of every shade of opinion were poked fun at Emperor William, in connection with his having caused three huge railroad cars, laden with the best brands of French champagne, destined for consumption at the imperial tables at Potsdam, to be loaded on to the Franco-German frontier at Atrichon, on the evening of June 30, so as to escape the vastly increased duties imposed by Germany on French wines under the new tariff, which came into force on the first day of July.

The late King Edward was particularly well equipped for the task. That he has a ready and witty pen was shown by the very clever story which he wrote of the King and Queen making the coronation visit to India, a story into which he managed to impart both humor and originality. Moreover, he has been for several years past the librarian of the royal library of Windsor Castle, and as such the custodian of his own private collection of the last four or five centuries. In the royal library at Windsor, there are preserved not only all sorts of wonderful editions and priceless volumes collected by the various occupants of the English throne, but also all the correspondence of Queen Victoria and of King Edward, with their ministers, and with the various foreign rulers

Coat Department—
Second Floor

Children's Boucle Coats, in all shades, sizes up to 14 years, at $5.00
Chinchilla coats, in gray, navy and brown, sizes up to 14 years, at $5.98
Zibeline Coats, with belt effect, all sizes and all new shades, at $7.48
Very Dressed Coats, in all shades, cheviot with silk sash, long waist lines, at $8.50
Fine Chinchilla and Zibeline Coats, velvet trimmed, with belts, nicely lined, at $10.00
Wool Plush and Fine Zibeline Coats, all sizes, at $12.50
Misses' and Junior models, in all new materials and models, at $12.50 and $15.00

LATE KING ORDERED REGULAR DUTIES PAID

Action on Part of Dead Ruler Constituted Heavy Drain on Income.

BY LA MARQUE DE FONTENAY.

WHEN the income tax was first established—or rather, I should say, revived—by the administration of Sir Robert Peel, in 1842, Queen Victoria, partly with the object of allaying the unpopularity of the impost, which had become a fiscal necessity, and more especially with the object of sharing its burden with her people, announced her intention of paying the tax, not only on her civil list, but also on her private income.

King Edward went a step further. For, after he had been on the throne for a few years, he gave orders that the regular customs dues should be therefor paid on all wines, spirits, tobacco, and other dutiable articles imported from abroad for the use of the reigning family, of the royal household and of the court. As the royal cellars are of immense extent, and as, moreover, the consumption of costly tobacco at court is extremely large, this action on the part of the late King constituted a heavy drain on his official and private income. Through a special and private income, through a course, it meant a considerable addition to the yearly revenues of the customs department.

If I call attention to this matter, it is because of the widespread comment excited throughout the country by the exemption of President Woodrow Wilson, though not of his successors at the White House, from the payment of the income tax under the new income tax law, which was enacted by the United States Congress. It is not the "Vice-President," or the members of the Cabinet, who receive less than a sixth of his emoluments, and who, in the reign of Louis XI, the ten pages were missing from the time the office of royal librarian eight years ago by King Edward, and among other things brought to light, the ten missing pages of the celebrated French translation of the "History of the Kings of France," which is one of the gems of the National Library of France.

The work in question belonged to Charles V. of France, and found its way into the National Library of Paris in the reign of Louis XI. The ten pages were missing from the time the office of royal librarian eight years ago by King Edward, and among other things brought to light, the ten missing pages of the celebrated French translation of the "History of the Kings of France," which is one of the gems of the National Library of France.

There is scarcely a monarch in Europe who is not engaged in industry and commercial enterprises of some kind or other, some of the finest distilleries in Scotland being owned by King George, while the principal breweries in Bavaria belong to the Wittelsbachs. It is unfair that they should escape paying the same imposts in connection with these undertakings, as their exalted competitors in business. When kings and emperors, as well as sovereign grand dukes, endeavor to add to their resources by the construction and the running of hotels and restaurants, such as, for instance, the Grand Duke of Wurtemberg, the Grand Duke of Baden, and the Grand Duke of Bavaria, it is only right that they should pay the same license dues and imposts as their rival businessmen.

In Germany, the various rulers of the twenty odd sovereign states comprised in the empire are called upon to pay duties on their imports from abroad, just like any other Teutonic citizen. In the summer of 1910 the German newspapers of every shade of opinion were poked fun at Emperor William, in connection with his having caused three huge railroad cars, laden with the best brands of French champagne, destined for consumption at the imperial tables at Potsdam, to be loaded on to the Franco-German frontier at Atrichon, on the evening of June 30, so as to escape the vastly increased duties imposed by Germany on French wines under the new tariff, which came into force on the first day of July.

The late King Edward was particularly well equipped for the task. That he has a ready and witty pen was shown by the very clever story which he wrote of the King and Queen making the coronation visit to India, a story into which he managed to impart both humor and originality. Moreover, he has been for several years past the librarian of the royal library of Windsor Castle, and as such the custodian of his own private collection of the last four or five centuries. In the royal library at Windsor, there are preserved not only all sorts of wonderful editions and priceless volumes collected by the various occupants of the English throne, but also all the correspondence of Queen Victoria and of King Edward, with their ministers, and with the various foreign rulers

Cardul is a perfectly harmless vegetable extract, of mild acting, medicinal, tonic herbs. It is the ideal strengthening medicine for women.

Cardul regulates irregularities, tones up the womanly organs, and brings back the brightness of health. Get a bottle to-day.

N. B.—Write to: Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," in plain wrapper, on request.—Advertisement.

Monogram Fish Roe 9c
Good Canned Salmon 8c
7 boxes Oil Sardines for 25c

S. Ullman's Son
1820-1822 East Main Street,
500 East Marshall Street,

ASKS MISS WILSON TO USE INFLUENCE

Connecticut Woman, Under Sentence of Death, Appeals to Bride-Elect.

DINNER PARTY ARRANGED Will Be Given in Honor of Bridal Pair at White House on November 21.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, November 13.—Mrs. Bessie Wakefield, the Connecticut murderess, who is under sentence of death for slaying her husband, appealed to-day to Miss Jessie Wilson, who is to be the thirteenth White House bride, to save her from the hangman's noose. In this letter Mrs. Wakefield besought Miss Wilson to persuade her father to use his influence either to pardon her, or commute her sentence to life imprisonment.

The letter was turned over to the department of justice, and by that department forwarded to Governor Borden of Connecticut. This was the only shadow across the bride-elect, as she and her sister spent the day examininginery which arrived from New York to-day.

It was learned that all the bachelors of the diplomatic corps who have been invited to the wedding will render floral tributes, which is the court custom. The dean of the corps, M. Jusserand, the French ambassador, will present two floral tributes, and one from the French government.

Congress may declare a holiday over November 25 out of compliment to Miss Wilson. The White House wedding will not be an official reason, given, of course, but that is what the one-day recess will mean.

Small Dinner Party. It was announced to-day that President and Mrs. Wilson will give a small dinner party on November 21 in honor of the bride and groom. The dinner will be given, of course, but that is what the one-day recess will mean.

An interesting coterie of Baltimore guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wilson, the President's brother and sister and their children. Among the guests from New York will be Mrs. J. Borden Hardman and Colonel House, who is spending the winter there.

The burning question among the lucky invited ones is just what style gown to wear. A smart afternoon demithee gown, or a dress of the favorite costume, although several bold spirits have declared in favor of the sensible and solid tailor suit.

Four guests at the wedding whose names will not appear in the society columns, but who, nevertheless, will witness the ceremony with more than ordinary pride, will be the four negro family servants of the Wilsons, who will wear a new gown each. These servants of Miss Jessie Wilson will be there, too, to see her "chill step off" as she quietly puts it. These humble guests will view the scene from the gallery.

Mrs. Daniels Gives Luncheon. All the guests at the "thirteen luncheon" given by Mrs. Josephus M. Daniels at 1014 Oak to-day, in honor of Miss Jessie Wilson, gave thanks to her for the wished luck, fortune and happiness upon her.

Miss Genevieve Champ Clark, daughter of the Speaker, presented Miss Wilson with a fairy stone from Virginia, which is famed for bringing good luck to its wearers.

The guest of honor was accompanied by her sisters, Misses Margaret and Eleanor, and by her mother, Mrs. H. H. Moore. Miss Mary George White, of Baltimore. Others present were Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of the Speaker; Miss Anna McAdoo, Miss Lucy Kyle, Miss Mary Tucker, of South Carolina; Misses Hargreaves, Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, Miss Ruth Hall and the Misses Ethel and Grace Bagley, sisters of the bride.

Miss Jessie Wilson's wedding gift from Senators—a silver service—will include a tea service, coffee percolator, compote, vases, cutlery and trays, and will cost more than $1,000. Senator Lane, who is looking after the gift for his colleagues, formally announced its character to-day.

Smith—Cooper. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Henderson, N. C., November 13.—After the wedding, the marriage of Miss Genevieve, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Cooper, of this city, and Claude Durham Smith, of Greenville, S. C., was solemnized this evening at 9 o'clock in the Church of the Holy Innocents, Rev. J. W. Hughes officiating. Miss Mary Perry was maid of honor. Misses Fannie Cooper, Julia Cooper, Marie Tucker and Lela Durbin were bridesmaids. Harold Smith, brother of the groom, was the best man. The ushers were A. A. Zollinger, J. D. Cooper, Jr., B. H. Perry and Leslie Cooper. The groomsmen were William Beattie, Wilson Glover, A. Cooper and Dr. C. H. Fair. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will leave for Greenville, in which city they will make their future home.

INSTITUTE IN CAROLINA. Entertainment and instruction offered by the Carolina Institute.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Bowling Green, Va., November 13.—A successful teachers' institute was held November 7 and 8 in Carolina County High School. Both days there was a large gathering of teachers and others interested in public instruction. After an opening prayer by the principal, the county superintendent, Mr. Broadus, offered a resolution commending the progress of the public schools and praising the administration of the supervisor and of the superintendent of the school trustees.

Professor Chandler, who was present from the State Normal, at Fredericksburg, spoke on "The General Status of Education," showing Virginia to be the fortieth State in school efficiency. Professor Moore, of the same institution, followed with lectures on agriculture and hygiene. The round table was lively in exchange of ideas. Delegates were chosen for the annual meeting at Lynchburg.

Lancaster High School Affre. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Lancaster, Va., November 13.—An affair of the Lancaster High School, which was soon discovered and quickly extinguished by school boys and citizens. The damage is small, and is covered by insurance.

Nominations of Postmasters. Washington, November 13.—President Wilson to-day nominated the following to be postmasters: At Parkersburg, Va., John S. Scott. At Conway, S. C., A. C. Thompson.

Gifts For Christmas— Gold Bar Pins

Useful for veil and collar. $1.50 and upward.

Schwarzschild Bros.
Richmond's Leading Jewelers,
Second and Broad Streets.

TO SAVE MOTHER, HE KILLS FATHER

Boy Shoots Parent Dead When Latter Draws Gun on Wife.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] St. Petersburg, Va., November 13.—Jerome G. Wells, prominent citizen of this place, was shot and instantly killed by his seventeen-year-old son, Robert, at his home about 8 o'clock to-night. Mr. Wells, who had been quarreling with his wife, picked up a double-barreled shotgun, and drew it on her, saying he would kill her. She ran to the door, and in the confusion, Robert rushed in from another room and shot him with a 32-calibre pistol, the ball going into his jaw and lodging in his brain. Mr. Wells was forty-five old. He leaves a wife and six children. He conducted a large dairy here, supplying the town and local fields.

SEABOARD STOCKHOLDERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING.

[Special